ABSTRACT. Heparan sulfate proteoglycans are ubiquitously found at the cell surface and extracellular matrix in all the animal species. This review will focus on the structural characteristics of the heparan sulfate proteoglycans related to protein interactions leading to cell signaling.

Fibronectin is a high-molecular weight (~440kDa) glycoprotein of the extracellular matrix that binds to membrane-spanning receptor proteins called integrins. Similar to integrins, fibronectin binds extracellular matrix components such as collagen, fibrin, and heparan sulfate proteoglycans (e.g. syndecans).. Fibronectin exists as a protein dimer, consisting of two nearly identical monomers ...

Interferon gamma (IFN $\gamma$ ) is a dimerized soluble cytokine that is the only member of the type II class of interferons. The existence of this interferon, which early in its history was known as immune interferon, was described by E. F. Wheelock as a product of human leukocytes stimulated with phytohemagglutinin, and by others as a product of antigen-stimulated lymphocytes or tuberculin ...

Cancer metastasis is the major cause of cancer morbidity and mortality, and accounts for about 90% of cancer deaths. Although cancer survival rate has been significantly improved over the years, the improvement is primarily due to early diagnosis and cancer growth inhibition.

ARTICLE SUMMARY. Impaired sulfate supply to the heart is a key factor in cardiovascular disease. Red blood cells, platelets and cells in the skin synthesize cholesterol sulfate catalyzed by sunlight.

Introduction. Gene therapy is a clinical strategy involving gene transfer with therapeutic purposes. It is based on the concept that an exogenous gene (transgene) is able to modify the biology and phenotype of target cells, tissues and organs.

1. Introduction. The concept of neuroglia was first proposed by Rudolf Virchow in 1858, in reference to the cellular elements that make up the connective tissue of the brain â€œnervekitâ€•.The MÃ¼ller cell was described as a radial fibre in the retina by Heinrich MÃ¼ller in 1851, later becoming known as MÃ¼ller glial cells.

Boldrini et al. find persistent adult neurogenesis in humans into the eighth decade of life, despite declines in quiescent stem cell pools, angiogenesis, and neuroplasticity. Over a 65-year age span, proliferating neural progenitors, immature and mature granule neurons, glia, and dentate gyrus volume were unchanged.
